Spring Fashion Coming Soon

Get ready for the AUL spring fashion show on May 10. Doors open at 5:30 p.m. The theme is Welcome to the Jungle. Models had tryouts February 5-8 and have been practicing since February 12. Roughly 300 people show up to watch the show every year. Admission is $5 in advance, $6 at the door. Money raised by the show is designated for scholarships for the graduating class. Ms. Sena, who has been the advisor for the past five years, is stepping down from the post.

In this year's show, models will call attention to important issues, such as Breast Cancer Awareness, Suicide Prevention Awareness, Autism and Hearing Loss Awareness. There will also be a box at the event for people to donate money to the organizations. The winter fashion show occurred on December 7th, 2018 and the theme was Hall of Fame.

Get On The Advanced Track

Advanced track courses are open to sophomore, junior, and senior students. Advanced track gives students the opportunity to study within their desired fields and helps prepares them for highlyskilled careers. AUL offers the following advanced courses: biomedical, biopsychology, criminal justice and law, international business, and computer systems technology.

The acceptance requirements are a 75% or higher grade in all classes, student resume, teachers' recommendation letters, and a history of good behavior. The teacher for each course reviews applications to determine if students are fit to be in that course. Applications for advanced track are sent to all students by email at the end of the school year.

The computer systems class is a great example of how fun and challenging advanced track courses can be. It requires a pre-course introduction that prepares you for what you are going to learn throughout the year. The pre-course will take place this summer from July 8- August 2. It runs Monday through Thursday from 8:30am to 2:30pm at the main campus of AULCS.

All About The Human Rights and Genocide Class

The Human Rights and Genocide Class has been offered as an elective three times since its start in 2014. The class is taught by Miss Gioia. It has 18 students this school year. The goals of this elective class are to help the community and learn about world crises. The school board came up with the idea of this class. One project that students in the class have taken on is a community garden. This garden is in a greenhouse right now and the seeds still don't require any sunlight. This project was started in 2014/ 2015 . When the seedlings get big enough, the garden will be moved to the soil in front of the Guidance Office. Miss Gioia hopes the class teaches students about selflessness, appreciation and ways to help others. Future class goals are to expand the food bank and to raise awareness of problems in our community.
